

For modern urban terraces: Emsa City Classic

Outdoor living in the city

From small city balconies to backyards and modern terraces above the city rooftops – even the urban world has its fair share of private outdoor spaces to offer. And they all have one thing in common: space is in short supply, so finding flexible design concepts is key.

How convenient it is when outdoor furnishings, decorations and plants are easy to move around – whether you need to make room for a couple of spontaneous guests or move those sensitive resident plants away from the frost and into their winter home.

The City Classics range by Emsa brings together everything you need for a unique, modern outdoor look, with the straight lines of the planters echoing the clarity of the architectural structures.

A coherent colour concept based on the colours commonly used for modern building façades creates a harmonious overall design without any great effort. And there's no need to call in the experts, either: large planters provide structure in subtle shades of grey, while smaller plant pots, balcony boxes and accessories skilfully create highlights in hot, on-trend colours like antique blue and green – just the way you like it.

Slender forms grow tall

With standard plants such as figs or olives, Mediterranean greenery has become a firm favourite on modern terraces. Vertically growing plants in particular look great in a tall, narrow plant pot. And the great thing about these plastic featherweights: when the frosty temperatures start to set in, you can easily move them to give your sun-kissed plants to a more sheltered spot.

With all sorts of different varieties available, hosta plants are also welcome guests on balconies and terraces – but they can't cope with too much sun. No problem: you can move them to a shaded spot in next to no time in these easily transportable planters.

Railings on view? The City balcony boxes are the perfect match for the planters and will stylishly highlight any railings you have with their concealed mount – or alternatively, they can also take up a decorative space on a stool or a table.

While the integrated Aqua Plus watering system in the boxes ensures that the roots don't dry out too quickly, the planters are perfect for lining with the Easy Drain cushions so that the standard plants (for example, sensitive ones) don't get 'wet feet'.

As you can see, there's the perfect planter for every plant – and every city dweller can find their own personal paradise of plants!
